AIM :

Write a HTML code to display your CV on a webpage.

TAGS & ATTRIBUTES :

<h3> tag :

The HTML tag represents a level 3 heading in an HTML document. HTML includes 6 levels of headings, which are ranked by importance. These are h1, h2, h3, h4, h5, and h6. The rank is given in the heading name. h1 has the highest rank, h6 and has the lowest rank. Two headings of the same name have the same rank.

 tag :

It is a container tag which means it has both starting tag and the ending tag. This tag is used to style the text. The text in the  tag is being underlined (unless you style it otherwise). It is used for adding structure and semantic meaning to the text.

 tag :

The HTML element represents an unordered list of items, typically rendered as a bulleted list. The tag also represents a list of items. The tag requires a starting and end tag.

 tag :

The HTML element represents a list item in an HTML document. It is used within an Ordered List or Unordered List. The tag requires a starting and end tag. But still the end tag can be omitted if the list item is immediately followed by another element, or if there is no more content in its parent element.

padding :

The CSS padding properties are used to generate space around an element's content, inside of any defined borders. With CSS, you have full control over the padding. There are properties for setting the padding for each side of an element (top, right, bottom, and left). CSS has properties for specifying the padding for each side of an element.
